
What does the author mean by “Skin is just a covering?”

How would you describe your skin?

Can our skin colour tell a lot about us?

What else is important about us?

How do we let others know who we really are/what we are really like?
