

Who am I? GUESS WHO?

Sharing information about the things we like and the things that are important to us is a great way to show others who we are.

Can you find up to five items at home which show others who you are? Or five items that tell your story?

With an adult at home, discuss why you've picked these items and challenge them to find five items of their own!

Put your items into a bag or you might want to take a photo or draw a picture of your items. If you put them into a paper bag, you could even decorate your bag with pictures and words that describe you best.

The next time you are talking to a family member (this might be on the phone, video call or even email), you could share your items and the story behind them so that they find out more about who you are.

Why not ask them to share their five items with you?

Here is an example to give you some ideas!

I am a happy boy and try to make others happy - laughing and having fun is important in my family.

There are four children in my family - we play lots of games so always need a pump to pump up a ball or bicycle tyres.

I love sport - watching and play. My favourite is football. I am a big Manchester United fan.

I love being at the seaside. We go there a lot as a family. I like skipping stones with my dad and my sisters collect stones to paint. We eat fish and chips.
