

Intergenerational Linking Book List

	This bright picture book describes the love between a young girl and her grandad. Touching on the concept of dying and loss, this book is full of poetic and ultimately uplifting words. We especially like, 'If all the world were stories, I could make my grandad better just by listening, listening, listening to every tale he has to tell.'
If all the world were by Joseph Coelho &amp; Allison Colpoys. Publisher: Frances Lincoln Publishers Ltd ISBN: 9781786036513
The Matchbox Diary by Paul Fleischman &amp; Bagram Ibatoulline. Publisher: Candlewick ISBN 9780763676384	This lovingly crafted picture book tells the story of when a young girl visits her great-grandfather. Whilst exploring his house, she finds a cigar box full of small matchboxes. Inside each one is an item which evokes a powerful memory for the man. Through dialogue and exquisite images, we discover more about the old man's story of immigration and the beautiful relationship between generations.
	'Grandpa Green wasn't always a gardener. He was once a boy who lived on a farm, and a child with chickenpox. He was a soldier, a husband, and most of all, an artist. Follow Grandpa Green's great-grandson through a garden where memories are handed down in the fanciful shapes of topiary trees, and imagination recreates things forgotten.'
Grandpa Green by Lane Smith. Publisher: Roaring Brook Press ISBN: 9781596436077

Badger's Parting Gifts by Susan Varley. Publisher: Anderson Press ISBN: 1849395144	This sensitive picture book is a beautiful way of helping children come to terms with the loss of a loved one. Although initially grief-stricken by the death of their friend Badger, the animals gradually learn to remember the special things he taught them and by doing so, discover that Badger can live on in all of them.

My Two Grannies by Floella Benjamin &amp; Margaret Chamberlain. Publisher: Frances Lincoln ISBN: 9781847800343	Alvina has two very different grannies who like very different things! Exploring identify, different cultures and how we can all live together, this is a fun and colourful book to be enjoyed by young children.

My Two Grandads by Floella Benjamin &amp; Margaret Chamberlain. Publisher: Frances Lincoln. ISBN: 9780711240919	The perfect follow-up to 'My Two Grannies', this book tells the story of Aston, who has two very different grandads. Grandad Harry is from Lancashire and plays the trumpet in a brass band; Grandad Roy is from Trinidad and plays the steel drum in a steel band. Together they explore music and culture in this